Dialogue

Every year Kupe watched flocks of godwit fly south past his island home of Rarotonga. The Godwit is a land based bird - so Kupe realised there must be land to the south and decided to set sail on a voyage of discovery. With his family, Kupe set sail navigating by the stars until his wife spotted a large cloud that indicated land, "He ao, he aotea roa - a cloud, a long white cloud!" she cried and so Kupe and his wife had found the land they were seeking, Aotearoa - New Zealand. After circumnavigating the North Island Kupe returned to his island home to share his exploits with his people. Centuries later, his descendants (following the directions he had left behind) made their voyage to Aotearoa to settle the new land.
